

For Sydney Based Students

Max Potential Is Currently Recruiting Volunteer Coaches

The Max Potential program offers 6 months of personal leadership development, including coaching, to young adults (16-23), to help them maximise their potential during the final years of education and beyond. It also encourages young adults to focus on the local community and ways that they can work to improve it.

Upon joining the program, you will be provided with the opportunity to train in a life-coaching model, which explores ten personal leadership principles. You will be given 2 full days of coach skill training and assigned a young adult to practice the coaching skills on over the 6-month program period. This placement is offered as a fully funded scholarship position (no cost to you).

We have fully funded volunteer positions available in the following programs areas:

1. Parramatta
2. Cumberland (Auburn/Lidcombe)
3. Hurstville
4. Menai
5. Macarthur (Campbelltown)

The timeline of program dates will be emailed to you when you send us an expression of interest request, with your preferred program location.

This is an exceptional opportunity to learn and practice your coaching skills. This program is great for psychology, coaching, counselling, youth work, business and any student or educator wanted to add 'coaching' to their skills, which professionally develops them in communication, empowerment and management. These skills are useful for personal and professional use.

You will receive a Certificate of Participation, which can be used to pursuing further career opportunities, as well as professional supervision sessions and ongoing support from an Executive Coach, giving you ongoing learning throughout the program.
